Assessments on Japanese Warship Plans; Deceptive Claims Denied by Minister

Naval Program Will Be Pushed if Equitable Demands Are Met, Unions Say

League of Nations today on warship plans was only natural that visitors should mean a reference to rumors that Japan intends to send there. Japan's securities officers of the Ministry of Finance, the schedule to the possible warship plans, were also under a mandate are being held firm by the United States Department of State.

A spokesman of the Japanese government said that Japan is not interested in acquiring new warships, but rather in upgrading its existing fleet. The government has repeatedly stated its intention to maintain a balanced military force, in line with the principles of the League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand Pact.

However, any request for more warships will be considered on a case-by-case basis, and Japan will not abandon its efforts to maintain a stable security environment in the region. The government has emphasized its commitment to peaceful development and non-aggression, as enshrined in the Japanese Constitution.

The minister's statement was also seen as a response to the recent increase in tensions in the region, particularly following the visit of a high-level US delegation to Japan, which was seen as a show of solidarity with Japan against the growing influence of China.

The minister assured that Japan will continue to contribute to the maintenance of peace and stability in the region, and that it will not resort to military means to resolve any disputes. The government has also reiterated its support for the ASEAN Treaty of Amity and Cooperation, and its commitment to the principles of the United Nations Charter.

2 Former Illini Make Gravity Observations On Campus For U.S. Coast, Geodetic Survey

Two former Illini, H. McElHose, associate professor of mathematics, and D. B. Koford, professor emeritus of mathematics, are making gravity observations on the campus of the University of Illinois for the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. The work is being done as part of the national gravity survey project of the U.S. government. The purpose of the survey is to determine the gravitational potential at various points on the earth's surface. The observations are taken using a gravimeter, a device that measures the gravitational acceleration at a point. The data collected will be used to improve the accuracy of maps and charts, and to study the distribution of mass within the earth. The work is being carried out in cooperation with the Illinois State Geological Survey and the Illinois State Department of Conservation.

College Entrance Standards

Among the leading educators and administrators in the country, the discussion of college entrance standards is taking place. This discussion is closely related to the secretiveness of the subject matter. The need for a new, more efficient system of college entrance standards is urgent.

The answer to this universal problem has been sought in the Pennsylvania State College of Education, under the leadership of Dr. Robert R. Borden. The Pennsylvania State College of Education, together with the work and scholarship of William J. Borden and the late J. Borden, has been a leader in the development of college entrance standards.

Buckler Gains Eight Yards—Then Comes the Mud

BLACKHAWGS GO TO ST. LOUIS FOR FIRST 1934 GAME

Ottumwa, Iowa—The Blackhawk eleven scored on a pass play of fifty yards from quarterback Ollie Williams to halfback Dan Castle, and also scored on a pass from fifteen yards out to Mike Montgomery, to lead the University of Nebraska eleven, 14-0, at the end of the first half at Memorial Stadium here today.

The second half opening touchdown came in the fourth quarter when the Blackhawks were on the St. Louis offense. The Blackhawk goal post was put up with the ball on the seven yard line. A pass from Williams was caught by Montgomery in the end zone for the touchdown.

The Blackhawk defense was outstanding, with halfback Montgomery and fullback Jim St. John making key tackles to prevent the St. Louis running game from breaking free.

The score was 14-0 at the end of the first half, and 21-0 at the end of the game.
