JUNIOR PROM.

The annual Junior Prom was given last Friday evening in Examination Hall, at which time the class of 1912 proved themselves excellent hosts. The hall was elaborately decorated with bunting and pennants, in which a very effective scheme of green and white was carried out. Because of the unusually favorable circumstances under which the event was held made it the most brilliant and successful of its kind ever held in Gettysburg. Among the things that were conducive to the success of the occasion may be mentioned the very large representation from the Junior class, the great number of visiting guests from the Senior class, the spacious and excellent dancing floor, the fine service rendered by Loeser's Orchestra and the efficient management of the committee in charge.

There were one hundred and fifty people present at the dance which was begun with a grand march led by Mr. Liebegott, president of the Junior class, and Miss Irene Granville; and Mr. Allabach, president of the Senior class, and Miss Mabel Mock of Schafferstown. There were twenty-four dances and the orchestra responded to many encores.

The patronesses were Mrs. W. A. Granville, Mrs. O. G. Khnger, Mrs. C. H. Huber, Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean, Mrs. C. S. Duncan, Mrs. D. A. Skelly, Mrs. W. C. Sheely, Mrs. E. A. Crouse, Mrs. H. T. Weaver, Mrs. J. R. Dickson, Mrs. S. McC. Swope, Mrs. William Hersh, Mrs. Donald P. McPheison.

Among the guests were the following: Misses Constance Beidleman, Anna Fisel, Virginia Bell, Mary Thomas, Marie Stricker, Emaline Stevens, Anna Keil, Fannie Kiet, Harrisburg; Elizabeth Hersh, New Oxford; Myrtle Watkins, Bigler-ville; Harriet Weaver, Frederick; Mary and Grace Mehring, Littlestown; Mabel Mock, Schafferstown; Elsie Wallace, Myers-town; Ellen Pomeroy, Chambersburg; Margaretta Irwin, Mill-intown; Edna Markley, Altoona; Mildred Markley, Roanoke, Va.; Grace Keefe, Springfield, Mass.; Harriet Good, Miss

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1, 1911

WITH this issue the GETTYSBURGIAN enters upon its fifteenth year of existence as the weekly official publication of Pennsylvania College. During the past year the great success of the paper has been due, in a great measure, to the untiring efforts of its Managing Editor, Mr. Small, whose unselfish aims for the welfare of the college and his true appreciation of all college activities has been portrayed to us through the editorial columns. We owe to him the plan where-by the present staff was increased and also several new ideas for the enlarging and bettering of the paper. It is clearly seen that to follow in the footsteps of our predecessors and keep the standard of the publication up to that of last year will be no small task. It is with a deep sense of responsibility that the new staff begins its duties in trying to uphold and maintain the enviable reputation that the GETTYSBURGIAN has hitherto held.

The retiring staff has done its work well and efficiently and has showed its confidence in us by giving into our hands the responsibility of continuing its publication. These two things alone are incentive enough to make us work and strive to meet the expectations of all things Gettysburgian. With the desire to please our readers and with the earnest intention to promote, as far as possible, the welfare of our Alma Mater, we assume the duties, promising to do all in our power to maintain the high standard of the GETTYSBURGIAN as a college paper.

The success of any project depends upon the co-operation of all concerned. In the past the editors have received much help in their work from the alumni, students and friends of the college. This fact has helped to fill the GETTYSBURGIAN with many things of interest to all. That the paper may still progress and continue its excellent work, under the new staff, we must look to you for support and interest. It is our aim to please you and we will try to give you all the news that will interest a Gettysburgian. You have been loyal in the past; may your good works continue to aid us.

EVERY person throughout his life, especially is this applicable to students, should participate in one form or another of athletics. He should make his exercise next in importance to his obtaining wholesome and nourishing food. For when we eat proper food and take suitable exercise we are on a path to health, which neither money nor good looks can purchase. How many men there are who if they possessed health would consider their present life ideal? In most cases in early life it is entirely up to the individual whether he will be a well-developed, healthful being or whether he will be one more added to the list of weaklings and debilitated ones. Of course this is an effect and very truly there must be a cause. The cause in most cases is to get money to become rich. In relation to college students, this holds indirectly for they strive to increase their mental capacity and thereby in course of time their financial income. Finances may be the backbone of prosperity but health is the keynote to all success. When a man fails to take sufficient exercise, he fails to perform one of the necessities of a successful life. We often forget exercise entirely, business prosperity being in the foreground of our field of attention. Although business prosperity is very enjoyable there is one fact which can not be refuted and that is to spend our health to gain wealth is folly for we then spend our wealth to try to regain health.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

On Thursday evening a prayer and song service was held.

On Sunday morning Dr. Valentine addressed the meeting. Many people defend their negligence and indifference to religion. They do not want to undergo the restraints and checks of Christianity. This in a slight degree applies to all of us. Disappointment in life is the cause of it. Yet the very checks of Christianity are necessary. They do not cramp our development but increase it. We all need something to constrain and control the powers we have. History shows that Christian nations have been the most successful nations of the world. Christianity has brought to man his highest achievements. Man's moral side is his highest side. Christianity reveals the need we have in our nature. It is the only religion that teaches us our weakness and sinful nature. Sin is our handicap and not Christianity. The Gospel alone shows sin's control over us and it alone gives us power to overcome sin. It sets before us the goal of perfection and gives us an example in Jesus Christ. Thus we are put in line with God's purposes. Success is assured us. We become co-workers with God. It brings us into sympathy with the very best things. Unselfishness lies at the basis of the noblest character we can strive for. The Gospel gives us unlimited power to lead good moral lives. The power which was able to draw men to Christ is able to hold men. The Gospel also gives us the best rewards. Thus the call of Christianity is not a cramp or restraint but a call to a higher and better life.

SEMINARY NOTES.

Logan spent last Thursday and Friday at Harrisburg

CLASS BANQUET.

The Upper Middle class of Prep. gave a banquet last Friday night at Raymond's Cafe. This radical innovation shows that Prep has entered into the spirit of the "Greater Gettysburg."

All that goes to make a high standard in school spirit and good fellowship is embodied in the class of 1916, and it will be hard in Stevens Hall to find another class with greater unanimity and enthusiasm.

At 9 o'clock the class marched from Prep. to Raymond's to find the Cafe walls literally covered with school and college flags. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on the good showing. Mr. Runde acted as toastmaster of the evening, and everyone responded, some wittily, some wisely, all well. Every phase of school life was touched upon, athletics, scholarship and fraternal relations were each given its share of discussion. Mr. Raymond in response to insistent demands gave an interesting and instructive talk.
